OFFICIALS GET DEATH THREAT MEDINA CO. SHUT OFF GAS, CITY OFFICIALS DECLARE

British Chiefs Receive Anonymous Letter Warning Them to Leave Ireland at Once—Failure to Comply Means Assassination, They are Told

While Note Reveals Menace to Life, Torch Is Applied In London and Liverpool—Millions In Property Is Swept by Flames

DUBLIN — (By United Press) — British officers at Londonderry in an anonymous letter, were threatened with assassination, if they do not leave Ireland at once. A repetition of the killings in Dublin was promised if they remain.

Irish officials declared gunmen from America had arrived in Dublin to cooperate with Sinn Fein.

Coincidentally with outbreaks in England, came reports Monday of renewed Sinn Fein activities in Ireland.

Determined attacks were made on police and military patrols, threats were sent to British army officers and mail cars were robbed.

ENGLISH PROPERTY FIRED

LONDON — (By United Press) — Damage done in Sinn Fein's first attack on English property was figured in millions of dollars Monday.

Extra troops were assigned to Liverpool, where dock fires still smoldered. Police and soldiers mounted guard here following the almost accidental breaking up of an arson plot in a secluded lumber yard. The Irish official declared the situation was under control. The most desperate leaders have been captured, it was announced, and evidence obtained will lead to the arrest of others at once.

Soldiers aided Monday in extinguishing the last of the fires on Liverpool's nine miles of docks. The fire department found itself unable to fight all the fires at once, and the losses in buildings and supplies stored in them mounted to hundreds of thousands of pounds.

INCENDIARY EVIDENCES

It was evident that the fires were of incendiary origin, as discovered Monday in scientific house breaking instruments and bolt-cutters, left by the fire bugs.

WILSON MAY ASK FOR TAX LAW REVISION

WASHINGTON.—(By United Press).—President Wilson, in his forthcoming message to congress, may ask for immediate revision of the revenue laws, despite the decision of Republican leaders to postpone action on this matter until after March 4, it was indicated at the White House Monday.

White House officials stated that the president would sign any bill making a wise revision of the revenue laws and it was also pointed out that the president has twice before recommended revision of tax law. Congress failed to act on either suggestion.

REPUBLICAN VIEW

Republican leaders in the house and senate believe that the short session of congress opening a week from Monday, is too brief for complete revision of the tax laws and they are disinclined to undertake a piecemeal revision at this time.

The president, however, is known to believe that the revision of the present tax laws is one of the most important matters facing the country and that it should be taken up without delay.

As reflected in the statements of Secretary of the Treasury Houston, the president believes in a re-distribution of taxes, rather than any attempt to lower them. He is also understood to hold that the excess profits tax, while acceptable as a war measure, should now be repealed.

MESSAGE NOT COMPLETE

It was also indicated at the White House that some amendments to the tariff law might not be opposed by the president, although it was not stated definitely what these were. The Republican leaders also have indicated their intention of holding up tariff action until after Wilson's retirement from the White House.

The writing of Wilson's message is proceeding, but is not yet complete, several important phases still remaining to be finished. Secretary Tumulty and the president conferred concerning his message Monday.

Whether the president would re-submit the treaty and whether he would appear before congress in person with his message were not indicated.

TWO MEN TAKEN ON COUNTERFEITING CHARGE

CINCINNATI — Two men caught in the act of printing counterfeit $10 bills during a raid on a rooming house Sunday, are held by police for investigation by federal authorities.

About $3,000 in finished bills was seized. The men planned to circulate it during the Christmas shopping rush, they said.

The prisoners, registered as Martin Hamman, 47, Cincinnati, and Charles Schwibbe, 26, of Vincennes, Ind.

Hamman had just been released after serving five years in a Leavenworth prison, for counterfeiting, he said, and Schwibbe said he had served nine months for cracking a safe.

The bank note were counterfeit of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank issue of May, 1914.

SPEED WITH MAN TO HOSPITAL

Al Simmons, Groceryman, Uses Razor With Suicidal Intent

OFFICERS HURT IN OVERTURN

Patrolman Hamilton and Three Others Periled in Crash

While rushing Al Simmons, 55, 1187 S. Main-st., to the city hospital after he had attempted to take his life by cutting his throat shortly after 8 o'clock Monday morning, a Williams and Davis ambulance overturned at Pine and Vine-sts.

THREE ARE PERILED

Three other men in the ambulance narrowly escaped death with Simmons, one of them being Charles Hamilton, policeman, who was accompanying the man who had cut his throat, to the hospital.

Harry Randall was driving the ambulance north on Pine-st and was sideswiped by a truck of the Frank Kelly grocery, corner Main and Vine-sts, driven by Floyd Watts, which was going east on Vine-st across Pine.

Don Baker, of Williams and Davis, was riding with Randall. Watts said the ambulance driver failed to sound a signal when approaching the corner.

The grocery truck struck the fender of the ambulance and Randall, who was driving it, put on the brakes, which is believed to have caused it to overturn.

OFFICER INJURED

Simmons, whose throat was slashed, crawled out of the overturned ambulance and was walking around when Sergeant Eberle arrived at the scene in the police patrol Officer Hamilton was taken from the car and was found to have suffered from shock and minor bruises.

Sergeant Eberle was called and conveyed Simmons to Hamilton to the city hospital. Later Hamilton was removed to his home at 1220 W. Spring-st.

Sergeant Eberle says that when he lifted Simmons into the other ambulance he said: "I hope this one turns over."

THROAT SLASHED

At the city hospital Monday afternoon Simmons was recovering and expected to live. Several stitches were taken to close the self-inflicted wound.

No motive is known for the man's attempt at taking his life. He is the owner of a grocery store at Third and Main-sts.

His screams attracted neighbors who had carried him to the house when Sergeant Eberle arrived. He was not unconscious and when he saw the policeman enter his home he asked for a glass of "finest Scotch," according to Sergeant Eberle.

After cutting his throat, Simmons threw his razor away. It was later found by Eberle.

NEW PLAN PUSHED

C. C. Members Will Nominate Trustees by Mail Ballot

A novel method is being adopted by the officers of the Lima chamber of commerce for the nomination of candidates for positions as members of the board of directors of the local body.

On December 2 blanks will be sent out to all the members, with instructions. The folder will bear the names of all the members of the organization, from which each member of the body is expected to select 15, writing the names in blank places provided. These nomination ballots, must be handed in at the chamber of commerce rooms or mailed to headquarters so as to reach there not later than 8 p. m. on December 7.

Representatives of the daily newspapers of Lima and Mayor F. A. Burkhardt will tally the votes to ascertain the names of 30 receiving the highest number of votes.

Within a few days after the close of the balloting for nominees, the names of the 30 candidates will be printed on a ballot and sent out to the members, 15 to be chosen from the number to serve as trustees. Five will be elected for three year terms, five for two years and five for one year, according to the number of votes received.

TO ISSUE BONDS

WASHINGTON — The Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad asked the interstate commerce commission Monday for authority to issue notes for $13,629,000 to purchase 2,000 steel gondolas, 1,000 steel box cars and other equipment. The Car-Clinchfield and Ohio railroad ask permission to issue fifteen years 6 percent cumulative income debentures totaling $5,000,000 to pay short term notes.

YOUNG MAN SHOOTS MOTHER AND HIMSELF, AKRON POLICE CHARGE

AKRON — Mrs. Mary Mack, 50, of 1192 Newton-st, Sunday night was shot and instantly killed and her son Joe Mack, 19, is charged by police with the shooting.

Young Mack is at City Hospital suffering from a bullet wound in his left breast inflicted, police say, while he attempted to commit suicide following the shooting of his mother.

According to police, the double shooting was the outcome of a drunken brawl at the Mack home Sunday night.

Joe Mack, Sr., 65, father of the accused boy, and Vandal Frer, 49, was being held at city jail Monday as material witnesses. Police say they found the two in a drunken stupor at the Mack home.

DEATH OF PEACH KING PROBED

Ex-Wife Jailed on Charge of Killing Georgia Man

SON AND SISTER ALSO HELD

Woman is Accused of Poisoning the Millionaire

MACON, Ga. — (By United Press) — Detectives were working Monday on a web of circumstantial evidence in an effort to firmly establish Mrs. E. Eugene Elmer in the alleged murder of her former husband, E. D. Shepard, millionaire Georgia peach king.

Mrs. Elmer has already been charged with the killing. Ernest Hopson her son, by a former marriage, and Mrs. Ione Henry, a sister, were also held on the same charge. It is alleged that Mrs. Elmer, with the connivance of the others arrested in the case, killed Shepard when he was her husband by giving him bichloride of mercury and that she concealed his will under which the bulk of his $3,000,000 estate went to his relatives. She took control of the estate herself and later married Dr. Elmer.

WILL RECEIVED

Sometime later Mrs. Alice Grand, sister of the dead man, received anonymously thru the mails a will made out by Shepard some time before his death. This will cut his wife off with $10,000 and an income of $100 a month and left the bulk of his millions to his sister and his son.

Receipt of this will under such mysterious circumstances, coupled with the fact that his widow had taken over the estate and had married another man, aroused such suspicions that Shepard's body was exhumed and examined for evidences of murder. The examinations of the body which was exhumed twice, revealed unmistakable traces of bichloride of mercury poison, in the opinion of State Chemist Everhart.

POISON FOUND

Dr. Funk, a pathologist, issued a supplementary statement, asserting that large quantities of bichloride of mercury had been administered to Shepard thru the mouth.

Arrest of Mrs. Elmer and her sister followed shortly afterward. After being placed in a hospital cell here, Mrs. Elmer raved and cried. She declared she was being persecuted by relatives who wanted a share in the estate. Hundreds of visitors called at the jail in an effort to see her. The building being surrounded by a crowd of people.

Many gifts of fruit and flowers were sent by sympathizers. The woman was held without bond.

INSANE, SUICIDES

Daniel DeVine Hangs Self Early Monday at State Hospital

The lifeless body of Daniel DeVine, 52, was found at 3:50 o'clock Monday morning in his room at the Lima state hospital, by guards. Using an improvised rope made from bedding, DeVine hanged himself from the bars over the window of his room.

Dr. Clark, superintendent of the institution, stated Monday that DeVine has a sister in Springfield, Ohio, but that attempts to communicate with her had failed.

DeVine was formerly in the Columbus state hospital for the insane, having been confined in 1904. In August of 1915 he was removed to the Lima hospital. His form of insanity was not such as usually tempts suicide, Dr. Clark said Monday.

MANDATE BOARD TO BE CHOSEN

Commission to Be Named By League This Week

INTERVENTION UP TODAY

Sending of Troops Into Lithuania To Be Discussed

GENEVA — (By Associated Press) — Appointment of a permanent mandate commission and election of a successor to Sir Reginald Dwyer as high commissioner at Danzig, were two important matters before the council of the league of nations when it met here Monday.

It is believed that some of the most important work before the council and the assembly of the league will be accomplished during the coming week. Committee reports are rapidly being put into final form and several will be laid before the assembly before Saturday night, it is said.

Among the important questions which will come before the assembly this week is the question of admitting Austria and Bulgaria to the league of nations. Despite the strong opposition of Serbia, Rumania and Greece to the granting of membership to Bulgaria at this time, a large majority of the delegates seem in favor of taking that step. There is virtually no opposition in the case of Austria, the application of which probably will be favorably acted upon in a few days.

INTERVENTION UP

Discussion of the detachment of troops into Lithuania, as well as the organization of a medical force to be despatched to Vilna were also to be considered by the council Monday. In addition the council intended to take up the guarantees extended to the minorities in Poland and Rumania. It is reported Mr. Barnes may attempt to put the league in a position of defending its inactivity in that war, but there is a disposition on the part of the delegates not to permit the subject to reach any delicate stage.

For the last two days, European delegates have been dividing their attention between the sessions of the assembly here and the meeting of Premiers Lloyd George and Leones in London. The decision of France and England regarding Greece and the near east is awaited with much concern. Many delegates continue to discuss the probability of Greece losing its place on the council of the league if Constantinople returns to the throne.

Most of the delegates have the impression that the first reply of President Wilson to the council's note relative to Armenia will be perfunctory, not committing the United States in any way, nor definitely rejecting the offer. Mr. Wilson's answer is expected to arrive within the next few days.

SUSPECTS TRACED

Investigators of Pierce Murder Sent to Ohio

PHILADELPHIA — (By United Press) — Investigators of the murder of Henry T. Pierce here Monday were awaiting word from the two Philadelphia detectives sent to Wellsville, Ohio, to identify two suspects held there. The suspects were Jack and Al Smith, who have been named by Peter D. Treadway and Marie Phillips as being implicated in the murder.

After their trip to Wellsville, the Philadelphia detectives will stop at Wheeling, it was said, to bring back Pierce's red automobile, in which the Phillips girl and Treadway fled, following the murder of the manufacturer's sales agent here. They also plan to stop off at several points on the way to check up on the statement of Treadway and the girl.

Police here received notification that the men held at Welch, W. Va., as suspects, have been released.

315 FACE COURT

Big Supply Found In Fields by Mayor and City Solicitor, They Assert After Trip to Producing Center—More Money Demanded

Capped Wells Seen—Lima Gets Supply From Old Field Covered In Contract—City May Go to Utilities Commission or Court

There is plenty of gas in the producing fields of the Medina Gas & Fuel Co., Lima city officials stated Monday.

In a trip to the gas fields late Saturday, Mayor F. A. Burkhardt and City Solicitor H. E. Garling discovered "capped" wells which would furnish five times more gas than would be needed to supply the City of Lima, the mayor stated Monday.

Lima's supply from the field has been diminished, they said they were told by officials of the producing company.

The pressure was reduced, they were informed, because the producing company's contract with the Lima Natural Gas company did not cover the fields where the plentiful supply exists. LIMA GETTING SUPPLY FROM SURPLUS WELLS IN OLD FIELD

Lima, they said, was being served from surplus wells in the old gas field, provided for in the old contract with the distributing company.

Gas from the new fields could not be sent into Lima under the old contract, they said. It would entail a big loss, they explained.

"The Medina company admitted sending less gas to Lima," the mayor said. "They have plenty of gas in the new fields but want to sell it at a new market price. They told us they couldn't deliver the gas from the new field to the distributing company here under the old contract."

Lima is in a precarious situation, the mayor declared, caught between millstones revolving around contract dissatisfaction between the producing and distributing companies.

Mayor Burkhardt and the city solicitor discussed Lima's gas situation thoroughly with the general manager, auditor, legal representatives and field manager of the producing company. CITY MAY CARRY FIGHT FOR MORE GAS TO UTILITIES COMMISSION

In a statement shortly before noon Monday the mayor said he believed the matter had reached the point where the city will be forced to carry the fight for more gas to the public utilities commission or into the courts.

"We are going to take those two questions under advisement," the mayor said. "I believe we will take one or the other of the proposed steps."

Officials of the gas company here maintain they are serving the city with all the gas sent in by the producing company. In a letter to the mayor Saturday E. R. Curtin, president of the Lima Natural Gas Co., placed the keys to the company's regulator stations at the disposal of the city.

CONDITIONS FOUND BEAR OUT STATEMENTS OF GAS COMPANY

Conditions found in the fields at Medina by the city officials bear out in every respect the contentions of the Lima Natural Gas Co., in the controversy, which has been in existence here for the last several months.

President Curtin has told the city council at different times that gas could be secured by paying the price the Medina company demands, which is 40 cents a thousand at the city limits. He has declared that the Medina company would switch the Lima supply back to the old field covered in the contract existing between the Lima company and the producers, thus being equivalent to shutting off the supply, as the old field is practically exhausted. According to the city officials, this is what has happened and Lima is getting very little gas.

Two offers have been made by the gas company which would assure the city ample gas for the winter, but both have been turned down by the council. The company has sought a new contract which would enable it to negotiate with the Medina company and pay the price it demands, thus giving the city access to the new fields.

X-RAY SPECIALIST DEAD AFTER 24 OPERATIONS, BOTH ARMS AMPUTATED

PARIS — Dr. Charles Infort, famous X-Ray specialist, is dead, according to announcement.

Gas of Dr. Infort's hands became infected in 1893 as a result of his constant use of the X-Ray and an operation was performed. Since that time he has undergone 24 operations, 22 of which were performed in the last ten years.

The last was on August 1, when his right arm and left wrist were amputated. His announcement in 1915 in the Academy of Medicine of Paris that he had extracted a shrapnel bullet from the heart of a soldier was read with interest throughout the world.

GAMBLING HOUSE ROBBED

STUBENVILLE — No trace of the movements of the ten armed men who held up a gambling house at Follansbee, W. Va., across the river from here and escaped with $3,000, could be obtained by police Monday. The robbery occurred Saturday night and the bandits escaped in automobiles.

BREAD PRICES CUT

CLEVELAND — The price of a 24 ounce loaf of bread was reduced from 14 to 12 cents Monday by a grocery company operating a large number of stores here. Two cent reduction is made possible by the decline in the price of flour, it was announced.

FLYER ARRESTED ON MAIL ROBBERY CHARGE

MUSKOGEE, Okla. — Keith Collins, aviator wanted in connection with the $3,000,000 mail train robbery at Council Bluffs, Iowa, several weeks ago, was under arrest at Westville, Okla., Monday. Collins was arrested at the home of his uncle, after a struggle with postoffice inspectors.

Authorities said Collins made away with the loot from the train in an automobile. Six men are already under arrest in Council Bluffs. They are said to have confessed.

PRICES DOWN TO LOWER LEVEL

Hit Mark Set During Armistice Week, Figures Show

STILL ABOVE PRE-WAR BASIS

Adjustment is Worldwide But Faster in U. S.

By way of tackling tumbling prices and how far they have fellored Old Doc Hi Cost—the old boy is still able to toddle around.

Up to November 1 the effect of the downward movement was to move the clock back just one year.

Wholesale commodity prices—more reliable barometer than retail prices because less jumpy—for October, 1920, were just about on the same general level as in October, 1919. The weighted index number of the bureau of labor statistics, in which each commodity has an influence proportionate to its importance in the country's markets, shows:

PRICES FOR 1913 EQUAL 100
October, 1919, 223; May, 1920, 272; October 1920, 225. The recession, knocked 18 per cent off prices between May and October. This just about scratched off the collar which had been put on high prices during the winter and left us where we were a year ago, or about 1 per cent higher.

Prices have kept dropping thru November. Estimating that they have fallen this month at the same rate as last month, it would indicate a general wholesale index December 1 of about 209. This would correspond approximately to the price level of the armistice period. In November, 1918, the index stood at 206.

DOUBLE BEFORE-WAR LEVEL. In other words, the present level, roughly speaking, now is somewhat more than double the pre-war level of 1913, and somewhat above that of armistice time.

Great variation is seen in the adjustment of groups. Comparing the bureau's November 1 figures with those of other months, we find:

Prices of farm products have been shoved back where they were before we entered the war in April, 1917.

Clothing, food, and metals have receded in wholesale price to the level of November, 1918, the armistice period.

Building materials are as high as last March; fuel is as high as ever. At the end of October building materials were higher than any commodity group, with the one exception of housefurnishings. They were more than three times as high as in 1913, as contrasted with food which stood slightly more than double the 1913 average.

HOW PRICES FLUCTUATE. Here is an illuminating table compiled from the wholesale weighted index numbers of the bureau of labor statistics. It is worth more than a casual glance. It shows the peak price for each group in the period since 1914, the price November 1, and the per cent decrease; then, farm products had an index of 137 November 1, as against a high index in April of 246. This was a drop of sixty-four points or 26 per cent. It left the price only 82 per cent higher than that of 1913.

Index numbers of wholesale prices, by

Groups of commodities, compared (1913 equals 100)	Peak Nov. 1, 1914	Price 1920 Dec.

U. S. DECREASES LARGEST

The adjustment is worldwide, but the recession has been fastest in the United States. The Statist's index numbers for the United Kingdom, a continuation of Sauerbeck's figures, came from London yesterday. Compared with American prices, they show: From September to October the general wholesale price level commodities declined 7 per cent in the United States and 3.5 per cent in Britain. Compared with a year ago, the October, 1920, level was higher than that of October, 1919, by 1 per cent in the United States and by 7 per cent in England. On November 1 the commodity price level as compared with that of June 1914, was 125 per cent higher in America and 196 per cent higher in England.

During October in the United States farm products receded 12 per cent from the September level and foods fell 1-2 per cent. Clothing and metals came next with a drop of 7-12 per cent from the level of the preceding month. If the fall in clothing in November has been at the same rate as in October, it would bring the index approximately to the average level for clothing for the year 1918.

PRICES DOWN TO LOWER LEVEL

Hit Mark Set During Armistice Week, Figures Show

STILL ABOVE PRE-WAR BASIS

Adjustment is Worldwide But Faster in U. S.

By way of tackling tumbling prices and how far they have jackrolled Old Doc Hi Cost—the old boy is still able to toddle around.

Up to November 1 the effect of the downward movement was to move the clock back just one year.

Wholesale commodity prices—more reliable barometer than retail prices because less jumpy—for October, 1920, were just about on the same general level as in October, 1919. The weighted index number of the bureau of labor statistics, in which each commodity has an influence proportionate to its importance in the country's markets, shows:

PRICES FOR 1918 EQUAL 100

October 1919, 222; May, 1920, 272; October 1920, 225.

Thus the recession knocked 18 per cent off prices between May and October. This just about snatched off the collar which had been put on high prices during the winter and left us where we were a year ago, or about 1 per cent higher.

Prices have kept dropping thru November. Estimating that they have fallen this month at the same rate as last month, it would indicate a general wholesale index December 1 of about 209. This would correspond approximately to the price level of the armistice period. In November, 1918, the index stood at 206.

DOUBLE BEFORE-WAR LEVEL. In other words, the general level, roughly speaking, now is somewhat more than double the pre-war year, 1913, and somewhat above that of armistice time.

Great variation is seen in the adjustment of groups. Comparing the bureau's November 1 figures with those of other months, we find:

Prices of farm products have been shoved back where they were before we entered the war in April, 1917.

Clothing, food, and metals have receded in wholesale price to the level of November, 1918, the armistice period.

Building materials are as high as last March; fuel is as high as ever.

At the end of October building materials were higher than any commodity group, with the one exception of housefurnishings. They were more than three times as high as in 1913, as contrasted with food which stood slightly more than double the 1913 average.

HOW PRICES FLUCTUATE. Here is an illuminating table compiled from the wholesale weighted index numbers of the bureau of labor statistics. It is worth more than a casual glance. It shows the peak price for each group in the period since 1914, the price November 1, and the per cent decrease; thus, farm products had an index of 197 November 1, as against a high index in April of 246. This was a drop of sixty-four points or 26 per cent. It left the price only 82 per cent higher than that of 1913.

Index numbers of wholesale prices, by groups of commodities, compared (1913 equals 100.)

U. S. DECREASES LARGEST. The adjustment is worldwide, but the recession has been fastest in the United States. The Statist's index numbers for the United Kingdom, a continuation of Sauerbeck's figures, came from London yesterday. Compared with American prices, they show: From September to October the general wholesale price level commodities declined 7 per cent in the United States and 3.5 per cent in Britain. Compared with a year ago, the October, 1920, level was higher than that of October, 1919, by 1 per cent in the United States and by 7 per cent in England. On November 1 the commodity price level as compared with that of June 1914, was 125 per cent higher in America and 136 per cent higher in England.

During October in the United States farm products receded 13 per cent from the September level and foods fell 8 1-2 per cent. Clothing and cloths came next with a drop of 7 1-2 per cent from the level of the preceding month. If the fall in clothing in November has been at the same rate as in October, it would bring the index approximately to the average level for clothing for the year 1918.

Nine carloads of steel for the new factory of the Lima Foundry & Machine Co. are now on the site, Wapakoneta-nd, ready for erection.

The erections are here and announced Monday they will have the structure built up in two weeks.

The foundations are all in for the factory and other materials, such as sash, roofing and brick, have been ordered. Men interested in the new company said Monday that the building will be under roof by the first of the year.

This concern will manufacture gray iron castings and is expected to become one of the city's important manufacturing concerns.

BALMY WEATHER BRINGS OUT RUSH OF BUYERS

The weatherman is certainly treating us peepul spiffy. Monday, altho cloudy the latter part of the day, was mild and the atmosphere was such to induce the majority of pedestrians to speed up and seem well pleased.

Many farmers deserted their work and came to the city, feeling that there will not be many more as nice days as this.

Christmas shoppers were in evidence in practically all the stores. Many women carried arm loads of merchandise away from the business district and some places reported that their stock of toys has already been invaded by the early buyers.

FEDERAL TROOPS ON SCENE

Soldiers Are Sent to Quell Strike Disorders

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — (By United Press.)—Mingo-co, the scene of numerous bloody battles between striking coal miners and mine guards, was under martial law Monday, according to telephone reports from Williamson, W. Va. The proclamation was said to have been signed by President Wilson on the request of Governor Cornwell.

Colonel Herbert Hall and a battalion of 480 men arrived in the Mingo-co seat Sunday from Camp Sherman, Ohio.

The troops are quartered in the court house, the city hall and a building formerly used as a hotel. Battalion headquarters have been established in the court house, while three companies are billeted in the city hall.

The remainder were dispatched to the east and west with orders to establish headquarters posts at Kermitt, Chatteroy, Nolan and Matewau.

Orders to company and platoon commanders are secret but Williamson civil authorities say the men have been informed of Governor Cornwell's statement that he did not intend to call federal troops in Mingo again to act as "sign posts."

The troops are part of the 14th infantry stationed at Camp Sherman since the return from overseas. The provisional battalion is fully equipped with horses, mules, army trucks and field equipment. One company of expert machine gunners is attached to the battalion.

UTILITY OWNERSHIP

PUBLIC ownership of utilities has failed. Wherever the plan has been worked to any extent the people have been disgusted. The rule has been that cost goes up and service down under this plan. An adequate example for this community is the Lima waterworks. The cost to the people under both Republican and Democratic administrations has been out of proportion to the cost of service from privately owned concerns, demonstrating that politics has nothing to do with the matter, if honesty is practiced.

In a recent report made to the National Association of Railway and Utilities Commissioners by the Committee on Public Ownership and Operation the plan is given a black eye. This report, in part, says:

"We recognize the fact that in some special locations public ownership may appear to be successful but we hold that if the real facts might be ascertained and the same tests applied to the public owned and operated utility, the general result will apply in all instances.

"It seems remarkable that any sane man with a knowledge of the increase in all costs of living should think or expect that utility corporations might be an exception to the general rule. No reasonable man has thought so. The operation of these general laws has again produced the political agitator who has sought and is seeking to make political capital out of present necessities. It is remarkable that men, honest and reasonable in the conduct of their own business affairs, will accept as gospel truth the perverted, even dishonest statements of demagogues who seek to climb into power and prestige by denouncing increased rates allowed utilities.

"We believe that the present system of private ownership and private operation with public recognition as is now the custom in this country, is the proper, logical and indeed the only just and honest manner of conducting the public utility business of this country."

Ample facts and figures are available to bear out the statements above if anyone who has lived in a community with publicly owned utilities can be found to doubt or question them.

LATEST DELICACY—ANGLE WORMS

FANCY a plate of angle worms, fresh fried in butter! Can you see yourself partaking of the latest delicacy? No?

Epicures have tried about everything else that the mind of man could suggest, but when it comes to earth worms—well, there's a limit.

If Prof. Lloyd Shaw has his way about it, fried angle worms may become the piece de resistance of collegiate luncheons. During the course of a lecture at Colorado Springs, Prof. Shaw described the angle worm as consisting mainly of two fleshy halves coursed by a small alimentary system. He told pupils there was no reason why it should not be eaten.

Taking the professor at his word, a group of his pupils dug up a mess of angle worms, friend them in butter and presented them to the professor, who ate them with what appeared to be a keen relish.

One cannot see the angle worm becoming popular as human food any more than the average person can adopt a diet of skunk or muskrat.

Besides, if the worm eating habit should be adopted, what would the fisherman do for "bait?" Once there should be a demand for angle worms, somebody would likely corner the market.

And another thing comes to mind. "Twould be cruelly to fry the poor things alive and so far as known, no one has written a treatise on how to kill the blighted things. Any small boy knows that they wiggle for some length of time after being impaled on a fish hook. Maybe, tho, there is a method of shooting 'em thru the head or grasping one of the wriggling things by the tail and with a quick jerk snap its head off.

However, there is no need to become excited about the Colorado professor's "discovery." Bear in mind that the advocates of grasshoppers, sparrows and other "varmints" as food are not often heard from now.

VIRTUE OF APPRECIATION

HERED is a timely subject for thought on Monday, dubbed by many persons as "Blue Monday," altho in reality, there is "no such animal."

Entirely too many conceive the idea that they have nothing to be thankful for and that their outlook in life is all dark and gloomy. Along about Thanksgiving time folks who try to be square with themselves begin the task of enumerating the things they ought to be thankful for.

Often we overlook some of the biggest outstanding features that apply to the situation in a most marked manner. How many have been and still are, thankful for the wonderful weather conditions the most part of the way that we have enjoyed during the fall?

Have you ever thought about how much money the benevolent weather man has saved you in the matter of the purchase of fuel and to what extent he has contributed to your comfort by withholding really severe winter weather?

Getting right down to brass tacks in expression of appreciation, the weather man has been more kind to the mass of the citizens than he has to those who have fuel to sell. Despite the fact that the fall of 1920 has been most wonderful in a weather way, resulting in more mature crops of corn, fruits, etc., than in many years past, still there are persons who cannot refrain from grumbling about the weather.

One wonders why.

MISS LIMA: "Some mirrors have a habit of lying to those who look into them too often."

WHY BE DISCOURAGED?

When Abraham Lincoln was a young man he ran for the Legislature in Illinois and was badly swamped.

He next entered business, failed, and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner.

He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he became engaged—then she died.

Later he married a woman who was a constant burden to him.

Entering politics again he ran for Congress and was badly defeated.

He then tried to get an appointment to the United States Land Office, but failed.

He became a candidate for the United States Senate and was badly defeated.

In 1856 he became a candidate for the Vice-Presidency and was again defeated.

In 1858 he was defeated by Douglas.

One failure after another—bad failures—great setbacks. In the face of all this he eventually became one of the country's greatest men, if not the greatest.

When you think of a series of setbacks like this doesn't it make you feel kind of small to become discouraged just because you think you are having a hard time in life?

TODAY'S HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M.D.

Most of the prejudice which exists against coffee as a beverage is based upon nothing more than morbid fancy. People of a dyspeptic or neurotic temperament are fearful of assuming that coffee must be bad because it is so good, and accordingly denying themselves the pleasure of drinking it.

Coffee is a strong stimulant to the cerebrum, the heart and the kidneys. There are occasions in which such stimulation may be desirable and beneficial, or at least not injurious; and there are other conditions in which there can be no doubt that such stimulation is harmful.

Among frequent conditions in which coffee may be injurious may be mentioned certain cases of insomnia, certain cases of exophthalmic goiter or hyperthyroidism associated with other diseases. I am speaking now of adults.

Children should never be given coffee. There is no conceivable condition in childhood in which the regular or habitual use of coffee as a beverage can be justified. There are many objections. In children the brain and nervous system are more predominant than in adults; the child's nervous system weighs more and is more active in proportion with body weight than is the adult's. That explains why a child will have a spasm or convulsion with the onset of an illness which would be ushered in with only a chill or chilliness in an adult.

Certainly no coffee or tea, since both beverages produce the same effects, should be given any child under the age of sixteen years. Coffee and tea drinking in child-

WHAT the STARS PREDICT

This day is fairly lucky. Anything pertaining to buying and selling has a good augury.

It is a lucky sign for farmers. Now honors for the President, thru some written work, are indicated.

Again the stars predict war for Great Britain. Persons whose birthday this is, will have a happy year. Children born today will be high-spirited and temperamental.

YOUR NAME

—CHAPMAN.

SOURCE—An occupation.

There is nothing ultra-modern about the "rolling stores" which created so much comment at the height of the high-cost-of-living period in New York city. Stores on wheels, in other words, the huckster's wagon, have long been common throughout the land.

As far back as the Middle Ages in England they had "rolling stores," and everybody who bears the family name of Chapman stands a pretty good chance of tracing his ancestry back to one of these "rolling retailers" of antiquity. At any rate the name itself is directly traceable to that source.

The "chapman" of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries was not an ordinary tradesman who contended himself with the market at his door. He was a pioneer in trade, the true merchandising expert of his age, who bought his wares in the section where they were plentiful, and therefore cheap, and enhanced their market value and his profits by transporting them to localities where they were in great demand. He did not handle perishable goods. For the most part he handled various forms of hardware.

Nor was he ignorant of the principles of advertising and the value of a "leader" in his offerings to attract the attention of the community in which he paused to do business. As a rule he featured a line of dolls to attract the children, who could be relied upon then to drag their mothers within sight of his other wares. His stock in trade was a pleasing, jovial personality, whence we have our modern word "chap," which meant at one time a "jolly fellow."

Tomorrow—Nixon.

JUST A GIRL

—BY JANE PHELPS—

ZENA QUESTIONS HERSELF

In the days and weeks which followed my talk with Jennie Wilcox, I avoided Mr. Betts in every way possible. And I also never failed to say something nice about Jennie when he was within hearing, even if I said it to the office boy. I had learned to like her, altho we never could be intimates. She was a better educated girl than Mary, of a fairly well to do family in a small town near Chicago, but she had none of Mary's delightful personality, her wonderful intuition, and sense of humor that had kept me from giving up in those dark days when I first came to Chicago.

To my delight I thought I saw signs of renewed interest in her on Mr. Betts' part. One day I said something to Mr. Claxton about Jennie. He replied: "There was a time I feared I should lose her as well as Miss Baker. Betts seemed very much impressed. I think she would make him a very good wife. She is a thoroughly good girl, and is fond of him, I am sure."

I longed to tell him what I knew of Jennie, but of course I did not. I only said: "She is in love with him I think."

"He hasn't annoyed you with his attentions lately, has he?"

"The question came as a surprise. I flushed, then replied: "No, he has not annoyed me."

"I did not add," because I would not allow him to. But I was sure Mr. Claxton sensed something because he turned away, and spoke sharply. "Please," like this letter!"

These sudden changes, which occurred seldom, always rather fussed me. I didn't understand them. But I had learned that an office girl has no right to question the moods of even the most thoughtful of employers. So I picked up my pen and waited.

The letter finished, he reverted again to the subject. "Mr. Betts hasn't tried to make love to you—Miss Stewart, has he?"

Please be honest with me. If he has and it is agreeable to you; that is your affair and his. But if he tries to force his attentions upon you please let me know."

"I surely will!" I did not call Mr. Betts' peculiar proposal "love-making" in any sense of the term. It had been a cold-blooded affair and was ended for all time. There was no need to confide in him what I felt might hurt Jennie in some way; what might either cause Mr. Betts to lose his position, or be angry, and perhaps "take it out on her," as Mary always said.

"Thank you!" In his usual tone. After he left the room I wondered just why he took such an interest in me. I knew I did my work well, but so did his other employees. A hot flush spread over my face as Mary's insistent declaration that he cared for other than as an office girl came into my mind. Could it be possible that the wealthy, cultured broker really cared for me, his private secretary? It was absurd. Yet the thought would not leave me. I had a slight embarrassment several times because of a certain something in Mr. Claxton's manner; but today when speaking of Betts there had been a difference. It was almost as if he were "in love" with me, instead of simply trying to save me annoyance.

I tried to reason with myself that such a thing was impossible, and because I knew that were it so I would have to find another position I succeeded. It WAS absurd; I would think of it no more. But also I determined to be more distant when with him, not to talk of anything but business.

I did not realize how the occasional little friendly chats had made my position not only bearable, but attractive. I had talked to me once, in a while as the men I had known, in what we called almost like a former existence had talked. I often felt that I had lived in one world, had died, and then come to life in another world. These chats with

Mr. Claxton, and my mother's letters were all that I had to remind me of that world in which I had lived when I was with us, and I was the petted only child of a supposedly millionaire. It would be hard to give up these talks. But I mustn't let him hold me cheap; neither must I let him be so foolish as to fall in love with me.

I blushed at the thought. Then visualized Kenneth Lawrence as being in his place. Would I be so careful that he did not care for me? Tomorrow—Zena rents a flat for Herself and Mother.

A BIRD IN THE HAND

Mable Mott announces that she has broken her engagement with the oil magnate and is now going with a coffee drummer. She kept waiting for the magnate to come in with a well, but as far as he ever got was to sell her some stock. Mable finally got her money back for this afore-said stock, and then she showed this oil magnate the stony face of an Egyptian Sphinx. He tried to come back with a wrist watch, but Mable coldly declined the gift, and intimating that her affections had already moved, The coffee drummer gets two hundred dollars a month, besides what he can snag out of his expense money. Mable says two hundred dollars a month looks better to her than a whole oil field, lost in the bush.—Lamar (Mo.) Democrat.

"CURTAIN" IS AID TO BEAUTY

Katherine MacDonald Improved In Role of "Nancy."

BEST WORK SHE'S EVER DONE

"The Cheaters" is Story Patterned After "Miracle Man"

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

KATHERINE MacDonald, whom we know as the "American Beauty" has completely revolutionized her record as an actress in "Curtain," her latest release. For despite extreme beauty and graciousness, she never impressed me as being any kind of an actress at all. Did you have the same impression?

After you see her in "Curtain," however, you'll want to see her more often, for her portrayal of the role of Nancy Bradshaw is the best piece of work she has done. The story is all about stage folk and we are permitted to see many intimate views behind the scenes. Miss Bradshaw is a product of the stage, and has at last reached her goal, which was to see her name in electric lights. Her triumph is shared with the author, Ted Thorne, who has always loved Nancy with an all-sacrificing all-encompassing love.

Then we meet Dick Cunningham, confirmed first-nighter, whom a subtitle confidentially tells us, "takes with passion and keeps with pride whatever his heart desires." After a whirlwind courtship, Dick becomes the husband of the beautiful Nancy, who, out of pure love for her husband, deserts the stage and on a brilliant career.

But Dick soon tires of marital bliss and seeks solace from Nancy's successor, behind the footlights. Nancy, knowing her husband to be faithless, goes back to the grease-paint and powder environment of the stage and there's a lot more, but there's not enough space to tell it.

"Curtain," since it marks Miss MacDonald's regeneration, is sure to please and interest you. The cast is average, with a darling little boy who knows his business. Miss MacDonald should lay off the good things of life, however, and lighten up a bit. She's getting rather stolid and peevish, but she's still beautiful girls; she's still beautiful!

You like Earl Whitlock, don't you? Well, he's cast as the young author who loves Nancy so much. And you're as glad as you can be when he gets her—now you know all about it—although we are not permitted to see what happens to friend husband. The picture is well photographed and directed, the scenes are sumptuous and the costuming beautiful.

Undoubtedly, "Curtain" is first-class entertainment. It's appearing at the Regent until Wednesday.

"The Cheaters"

If you've a good kind heart like you're supposed to have, you can't help but feel sorry for a bunch of actors and actresses who find themselves hitched to a vehicle like "The Cheaters." For despite the fact that May Allison has one of the leading roles, it is not the kind of picture that one would term "splendid."

It's built on the lines of "The Miracle Man" only it has a lady healer instead of a man. Three takes find it highly profitable to pose as healers among a colony of rich and hypochondriacal people, and through some freak of fate, manage to get by with it for a long time. Vashit, played by Miss Allison, finds herself engaged to cure the young sister of Lord Asgarby, which she professes to be able to do by fasting three weeks. There are those, however, who are skeptical of the blond young lady's powers of healing, and she is watched closely, so that even her father is unable to feed her. Complications arise therefrom, the child is cured, the not thru Vashit, the healer is forgiven and we are left under the impression that they (the healer and Lord Asgarby) will marry in the near future.

Miss Allison has always been popular, but she won't be if she has many more pictures like "The Cheaters." While the play itself is of an adventurous nature which holds the interest, it's adaptation to the screen is only fair. King Baggot is in it, which is one thing to be thankful for, and he does good work in the role of Lord Asgarby. The acting and direction are as good as can be expected, but as a whole "The Cheaters" will never make a record for itself. (And if you don't agree with me, you'd better keep still about it.)

It is showing at the Sigma.

SUSIE SMART SAYS

Dear Miss Smart: If a man would look about a month and three days of age, and would get married and put the wrong date of his birthday on the license so he would be of age, would the marriage be legal? Would there be any penalty for this or if they should live together for 19 or 12 years would it be legal? Please answer this in the Lima News columns.

INQUIRY
I think that the marriage would be considered legal but the man would be guilty of perjury and the penalty thereof.

Dear Miss Smart: Please publish a few good contests and games to be played at a class party. I have no music; I prefer games to be played indoors.

SIXTEEN
Here is one which I just found. It combines the fun of "dressing up" and the love for acting and theatricals which every person has. Select a scene (or two or three) from your favorite book: Alice in Wonderland, Little Women, Daddy Long-legs, Pollyanna. Make this part of the play into a little play, Tab-leaux, without much acting, will help the story along, and introducing the characters in the movies will be very effective. Let one room be the stage and another the auditorium. The door between will make a useful "curtain."

Dear Miss Smart: Will you please tell me the following addresses: (1) Kathleen O'Connor; (2) Mary Pickford; (3) Vivian Martin; (4) Douglas Fairbanks; (5) Wallace Reid; (6) William S. Hart.

ROSE
(1) Universal City, Cal.; (2) Lasky, Hollywood; (3) Morasco, Los Angeles; (4) Hollywood, Cal.; (5) Lasky, Hollywood, Cal.; (6) Bates and Effie-sts, Hollywood, Cal.

My Dear Miss Smart: Come! Come! Please come to my aid. I am a young man a little over 18 years of age. I was in love with a girl of 18, who went back on me. My heart is breaking. My dear good woman, will you please come to my aid and tell me what to do? I sure do hope that this sort of thing will not befall you. May your consoling words reach me soon. J. Z. R.

I would forget it.
Dear Miss Smart: I am asking you for advice. I am a married girl of 18 years and have been married for a year. My husband and I do not live together. I live with my people and he lives with his. He tells me that he has not enough money to go to house-keeping. We have money to go to house-keeping several times but he always told me that he could not keep up the expense. My husband says that he loves me but I don't think that he does, because he doesn't treat me like he used to. When we were first married he bought me nice clothes, took me to the movies and bought me candy. Now he does not take me any place nor buy me anything. He sees me once a day and that is in the evening. He just stays for about an hour and he never talks to me. When we had our own house he treated me pretty good but he never took me any place. My husband works in an office where there are girls. He makes good money but he says that he can not go to house-keeping. I love my husband and would like to live like other married people do. When we were keeping house my husband talked in his sleep and mentioned a girl's name. This girl works in the same office with my husband and he said that she was about her age. I never told him about it. Do you think that I should? Do you think that my husband loves me or does he love that other girl? What do you think that I can do to make my husband love me? We have no children but my husband pays my board. I do not want to live like this.

TROUBLED WIFE
You are certainly living the wrong way. Your place is with your husband. Talk to him in a sensible way and tell him how foolish it is to live the way you are at present. Any man who is earning a fairly good salary these days, should be able to furnish a home for his wife and himself. Make yourself so attractive in every way that your husband may be proud of you and want you with him. Don't be so "ridiculous as to make yourself unhappy over what your husband might say in his sleep about an acquaintance. One is not responsible for what they say in their sleep. Place all your love and trust in your husband and I think that you will have no difficulty in winning his love. Remember, to be happy one usually has to play the "fifty-fifty game."

The Palace of Darkened Windows

BY MARY HASTINGS BRADLEY

Perhaps it was the hairpins. Perhaps it was the bathed face and the deep-brightened eyes and the rearranged gown. But certainly Burroughs stared in amazement at the slim little figure that issued from the entrance, and a queer, a very queer confusion seized upon him. Not even outrageous sunburn and pathetic blisters could hide Arlee's young loveliness. They only added an utterly upsetting tenderness to the holder, and a most dangerous compassion.

And just as each man is smitten with a maiden after the manner of his kind, so Burroughs, the taciturn, was struck into amazing volubility. As they sat about a cracker box of a table at an early supper, he became a perfect fount of information, pouring out to this girl an account of his doings that would have astounded any of his intimates, and would surely have amazed Billy B. Hill if that young man had been in a condition to notice his friend's performance. But he was wrapped in a personal gloom that had descended on him like a cloud of unreason. The escapade was nearly over. The little girl comrade was gone, the little girl whose face he had so tenderly scrubbed of its grimy sand. A very self-possessed young lady was sitting beside him, drinking her coffee, an utterly lovely and gracious young lady, but unflatteringly remote—elusive.

Perhaps, again, it was the hairpins.

Off to town on donkey back the three Americans rode slowly, a native escort lulling after, and there in the bazaars yielded a long possessive dust coat and a straw hat and a white veil, "no escape, detection," Arlee gaily said, and a satchel which she filled with mysterious purchases, and then, clad once more in the semblance of her traveling world, safe and sound and undiscovered, she stood upon the station platform, awaiting the train to Luxor.

Beside her, two very quiet young men responded but feebly to the flow of spirits that had amazingly succeeded her exhaustion. Burroughs was suddenly suffering from a depression most unfamiliar to his practical mind, which caused him to moon about his work for days and made his depleted jar of cold cream a winning memory, and Billy was increasingly glum.

It was all over now. The girl, who for two winged days had been so magically his gypsy comrade, was returning to her own world, the world in which he played so infinitesimal a part. For very pride's sake now he could never force himself upon her . . . as he might before.

He stared down at her eagerly, hopefully, for a sign of regret at the ending of this strange companionship, much as a big Newfoundland might watch for a caress from a cherished but tyrannical hand, but not a scrap of regret was evidenced. She was as blithe as a cricket. Her only pang was for discovery.

"You're sure," she murmured as Burroughs left them to interview the station clerk, "you're sure they'll never know?"

"I'm positive," he stolidly responded. "Just stick to your story."

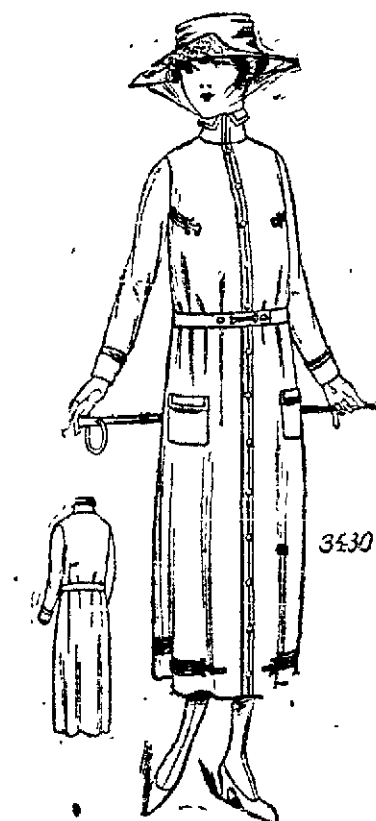

"The Evershams won't question—they are never interested in other people," she mused, with thankfulness. "But Mr. Falconer—"

"Won't have a doubt said Billy firmly. His gloom closed in thickly about him.

It was a local, a train of corridor compartments. In one, marked "Ladies Alone," Arlee was encountered, with an Englishwoman and her maid, and two pleasant German women, and in another Billy B. Hill sat opposite some young Cops and lighted pipe after pipe. When the train started out on the High Bridge across the Nile to the eastern bank, he came out in the corridor to look out the wide glass windows there, and found Arlee beside him.

"How do you do?" she said brightly. "How nice to meet accidentally"

Like this—you see, I'm rehearsing my story," she added under her breath.

"Let's see if you have it straight," he told her.

"I arrive on a local which left Cairo this morning . . . Did I come alone?"

"You'd better invent some nice traveling friend—"

She shook her head in flat refusal. "I won't. I'm not equal to inventing anything. It's had enough now to—tell the necessary lies I have to."

The brightness left her face looking suddenly wan and sorry.

"I suppose it's part of my—punishment—for my dreadful folly," she said in low tone.

"It's just part of the coin the world has to be paid in for its conventions," Billy quickly retorted.

"Don't let it worry you like that—in a day no one will think to question you."

"I know—but—it's having the memory always there. Always knowing that there is something I can't be honest about—something secret and dreadful—"

She was staring unseeing out the window, her soft lips twitching.

"The Egyptians were a most sensible people," said Billy. "They drew up a list of commandments against the forty-two cardinal sins, and one of them was this, 'Thou shalt not consume thy heart.' That is a religious law against regret—vain, unprofitable, morbid, devastating regret. And you must take that law for your own."

"Thank you." The low voice was suspiciously wavery. "—you see, I haven't had time to think about it till just now—we've been going so fast—"

"And the best thing that could have happened. And now that you have the time to think, you mustn't think weakly. It was just a nightmare. And it's over."

"Just a nightmare . . . And it's over," he repeated. Her eyes lifted to Billy's in a look of ineffable softness and wonder. "It's over—because you can't."

"I want you to forget that." The young man spoke with cold earnestness in his effort to combat the wild temptation of that moment. "I only did what anyone else in my place would have done—to have accomplished it is all the gratitude I want. Please don't speak of it to me again. You must forget about it."

"Forget—as if I could help being grateful as long as I live!"

"But I don't want you to be grateful. It—It's obnoxious to me!"

She was blankly hurt as a slapped child. Then she looked away, a little pulse in her throat beating fast.

"Then I won't—try to thank you," she answered in a very small voice, and stared harder and harder out the window.

Billy felt that he had accomplished a tremendous stride. "A feeling of obligation kills a friendship," he told her didactically, "and I want you to be really my friend."

"I am." Her voice was distinct, the queerly lack-luster. And she did not look at him again.

He went on: "The Evershams will be in on the boat about seven. From the station I'll take you straight to the boat, where your stateroom is surely being kept for you. Then tomorrow your trunks will arrive from Cook's, and by the time you are thru resting, you will be ready to sail out and meet the world . . . I hope my own trunk will make its appearance, too," he added. "I telegraphed the hotel to pack my things and send them on."

Se made no comment on the obvious haste with which he had left Cairo. She said slowly, "I want to do a little mathematics now. What is the shocking sum I owe you?"

He shut his lips in an obstinate line. After a moment she added, "I can't take that, you know."

It struck him as a trifling ludicrous that dollars were so important among all the rest, but unwillingly enough he understood.

"Won't you just let it stand as it is?" he said under his breath. "Let me have the whole thing—please."

"I can't."

"You mean you won't?"

"I can't," she repeated inflexibly, and then, with a childish flash, "Since you dislike me to feel grateful—I should think you would be glad to let me reduce the debt."

"All right," he spoke gruffly. "Then you owe me what you spent just now and what your railroad ticket cost. Not a cent more. For what went before I am absolutely responsible, and I decline to let you pay my debts."

This time he was inflexible. She repeated, with a spark of resentment, "It's not fair to let you pay so much—"

"It was my adventure," said Billy firmly.

She said, "Very well," in a voice that puzzled him. He felt that that puzzled him. He felt that she was annoyed. And he realized more than ever that he could never take advantage of her indebtedness to make her pay with her companionship. It was becoming a queer tangle . . . He felt they had suddenly slipped out of tune . . . She seemed to be escaping him—withdrawal.

He wondered, very unhappily, with no fine glow of altruism at all. If he had rescued her for another man. Those things happened, they happened with dismal frequency. Billy distinctly recalled the experience of a college friend who had carried a girl out of a burning hotel, to have her wildly embrace an unstriving youth below. Yes, such things happened. But he had never contemplated having anything like that happen to him.

He contemplated it now, however, contemplated it long and bitterly, when Arlee had gone back to her compartment and he sat silent in his beside the chattering Cops while the train rattled on and on. They would be three days at Luxor before the boat proceeded upon its southern journey. And then—

Three days. Three miserable, paltry, insufficient days, blighted by the chaperoning Evershams. . . . Frantically he hoped against dark foreboding that one menace at least might be averted—that by now Luxor would have ceased to shelter a certain sandy-haired young Englishman.

OHIO STATE ELEVEN TO PREPARE FOR COMING GAME

COLUMBUS.—When Ohio State, western conference football champion, goes west to meet the University of California eleven at Pasadena on New Year's day, it is probable the Buckeyes will be fortified with offensive formations not seen in their contests with other Big Ten elevens.

Shortly after Ohio's victory over Illinois, Jack Wilce, Buckeye coach, went east to see the clash between Penn State and Pittsburgh and the annual Army and Navy struggle. While Coach Wilce may have gone on a pleasure jaunt, it is likely he took the trip to increase his football knowledge.

The Ohio coach is a smart mentor. He believes a lot of football can be learned through observation and he knew the two big eastern games would show the best they had in the east. As a result, Wilce will return to Columbus with some first hand information about offensive and defensive football.

Having won the Big Ten title, Coach Wilce will work his men just as hard to win the big inter-sectional contest. Ohio already has a strong combined open and close attack and this offense will be strengthened by the plays that Wilce is certain to bring back from the east.

The University of California eleven has been developed by Andy Smith, former University of Pennsylvania player who coached football at Purdue. When his playing days were over, Smith became an assistant mentor at the Quaker institution. Then he came to the middle west. Since going to the coast and having developed strong teams, but this year's eleven is the first to win the east title.

WESTERNERS FACE BIG TASK. Having coached in the middle west, Smith probably has a fair idea of the caliber of football played in this section. Whether he has a good knowledge of Ohio's system seems improbable. Wilce's open attack is much further advanced than it was a year ago. In addition, Ohio has a powerful smashing offense which may cause the coast eleven some trouble.

The game is certain to attract attention from middle west gridiron fans. Eastern enthusiasts also will watch the result closely because of Smith's former affiliations with Penn. It is understood Ohio will start practice Dec. 1 and leave for the coast two weeks later.

Coach Wilce knew the Harvard-Oregon game last year at Pasadena and is aware of the conditions out there. He realizes his men must be taken west well in advance of the contest to become acclimated.

OTTO NEU TO PLAY WITH KENTON

KENTON.—Otto Neu, of this city, who started last season as a try-out with the Cleveland American League baseball team, will play a forward position this winter with the Kenton Reds basketball team. Neu developed a sore arm in spring training with Cleveland and eventually dropped from the club for treatment, ending the season with Enid, Okla.

The Kenton athlete played basketball with the local quintet last season and is considered one of the speediest floor men ever seen in action here. In the opening basketball game last season, Neu tossed in thirteen field goals.

AKRON BEATS DAYTON TEAM

DAYTON.—Two touchdowns by Fritz Pollard, colored star half back, one after a forty yard pass and the other after he had run thru the entire triangle team, gave Akron a 11 to 0 victory over the triangles of this city here yesterday.

By winning yesterday's game Akron lays claim to the national professional football championship. The team defeated the Canton Bulldogs twice during the season and administered the same number of defeats to the triangles, the other contender for the title.

Do This For Constipation

THE public should know that there is a vast difference in the action of the various remedies for constipation. Some are "foibles," purges, physics. They irritate and weaken.

For lasting effect use a laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin acts gently and mildly so that even a tiny baby can use it with safety. It is a compound of Epsom Salts and other simple laxative herbs with peppermint and pleasant-tasting aromatics. A sixty-cent bottle will last an average family many months.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the most popular of all laxatives and more is used in American homes than any other. Last year eight million bottles were sold by druggists, the largest sale in the world.

ALL-AMERICAN FULLBACK REFUSES OFFER TO PLAY PROFESSIONAL BALL

MORGANTOWN.—Casey, OH. phant, West and other luminaries who filled the sporting pages with their deeds on the gridiron at the same time as he may play professional football if they like, but not for Ira E. Rodgers, West Virginia's all American fullback in 1919, and regarded as the greatest thrower of the forward pass that the game has developed.

Rodgers has definitely made up his mind that money, friendship for men managing or coaching professional teams, nor any other consideration shall swerve him from his decision never to play a professional game. At the close of last season when Rodgers' name was on the tip of every follower of the gridiron sport, an emissary of one of the leading Ohio professional teams came here and offered Rodgers $750 for a single game to be played after Thanksgiving. He refused this offer which he believed to be the most money ever offered for a single contest. This year, since Rodgers has been helping "Tubby" McIntyre develop a practically new Mountain game, he has not been sought to play with some of the "pro" elevens. It remained, however, for Elgin Tobin, former Penn State star and coach of Kenton here for all of his four years and who is now coaching the Akron (Ohio) team, to bring Rodgers to a double decision. Tobin came here the other day with the avowed intention of signing Rodgers to a contract, but Rodgers refused to be pressured to do without.

Rodgers has no criticism for any one who wishes to play professional football, but for himself he believes he would rather retire from the gridiron with all his manly laurels in the "pro" condition as when he hurled his last success-ful pass against Washington and Jefferson here last Thanksgiving Day.

Ira E. Rodgers

SEEK LONGER SEASON FOR FOOTBALL

CHICAGO.—Requests for a longer playing schedule for western conference football teams will be presented to the faculty committee, which meets here in annual session December 4, according to reports today. Several of the big ten coaches are said to favor a nine-game schedule instead of seven, as at present, adding perhaps two preliminary contests to fit the elevens for the important battles in the season.

The increased interest taken in the big ten games is shown by the big increase in receipts this year at many of the colleges, advocates of the longer season declare. Chicago and Northwestern showed greatly increased receipts over any previous year and Ohio State and Illinois are planning vast new stadiums.

COACHES FAVOR IT. The reduction of football interest in 1905-1906 led the conference committee to cut the schedule to five games, but some years later this schedule was changed to seven. Coaches who favor the longer schedule, point out that many teams are inclined to schedule as many as four games away from the home gridiron, generally with teams of great drawing power.

The inclination to play games which are assured of heavy receipts, some of the coaches declare, works a hardship on the home rooters, who would receive the chief benefit of a longer schedule.

Another great advantage, it was asserted, would come to the weaker elevens of the big ten through the additional practice games, as they would not be called upon to face the stronger teams so early in the season with elimination from the championship race almost certain.

KENTON REDS ARE AGAIN IN FIELD

KENTON.—The Kenton Reds are in the running again for independent basketball honors in Ohio.

It has been several seasons since the widely-known cognomen was abandoned for various other titles in connection with the Kenton cage squad, but the new management of the team this winter has revived the well-known name under which Kenton fives in years past have won honors.

The Kenton professional team has been re-organized, and some new material added for the season which opened on Thanksgiving Day. The managers of the team are Harry Eddy and Byron D. James.

ARE TRAINING HARD. Daily training has been the means of the local athletes for two weeks and the result shows in their practice performance.

The Kenton rugers last season, in a schedule of twenty-two games, won all but three. They expect to go out to beat that record.

Following the Tiffin fray, the Kenton Reds will meet the Dayton Buckeyes on December 2, and on December 8 will play the Lima city team in a benefit game for the local Post of the American Legion. Several other fast clubs have been booked and the management is open for other games.

The Kenton Reds' squad this year includes the following players: Captain Ralph Jones, Dewey Thompson, Otto Novak, Wilbur Lyman, Harold Eddy, Chalmers Lingard, and A. M. Atlicks.

A. A. SWAT HONORS ARE CORNERED BY ST. PAUL

St. Paul bagged the championship swat honors in the American association this year, both individually and collectively, according to the official batting averages promulgated by President T. J. Hickey.

As a club the Saints led the association in team slugging with an average of .301, which was 21 points ahead of their nearest rivals, the Millers.

Individually Rapp and Hargrave of the St. Paul team divided the title of champion batsman with a mark of .335 apiece, for players who partook of more than 100 games.

Rapp played in 155 games and Hargrave in 142, which gives the former the advantage in the tie. Numerous other batters who played in a minority percentage of the games scheduled ranked up higher swat averages, but the fewer the games, the higher the value of a baseball.

Wilbur Good, formerly of the Cubs and now with Kansas City, was third in the list of regulars in the association with a swat mark of .334, and he played in 166 games, which makes his record practically as good as those of Rapp and Hargrave.

The averages are interesting to fans because of the high standing of Johnny Mostil, who played with the Brewers and is an asset of the White Sox. He swung the pill for an average of .318 in 155 games. Bruno Hanes, another Comiskey discard, who never caught in the outfield on the south side next year, was good for .305 with the stick as a member of the St. Paul team.

Minneapolis was second in team batting and Toledo third, with the latter club trailing the league.

Syracuse and Dartmouth also must be given a place near the top. Ohio State won the western conference championship without doubt, but outside the confines of the conference, is an eleven which the east considers better—Notre Dame. Rather the east fails to see how any other team could be better.

HERE WE ARE, PETE!

Camped once more in the plumb centre of our old stamping grounds—rubbing elbows with the roaring racket and running flush into more electric displays, blazing posters and smashing signs that sound the joys of Camel Cigarettes than you'd ever believe could be jammed into one town!

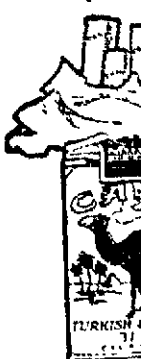

When I hit Broadway this p. m. I'd said the Reynolds folks had transplanted "Camel City" right up here!

It seems like all New Yorkers have adopted Camels as their own personal brand! And, Pete, since this is the original speed town it's only what you expect when you see 'em carry a package of Camels in each coat pocket. If their right hand is busy, they dig out their left hand deck—they just won't lose time getting a Camel lighted! That's the gait around here, old throbber!

And, Pete, the New Yorker has his own A-1 pet reason why he's so keen for Camels. For instance, Doc Marshall will bet his car on Camels quality against any cigarette in the world! Bill James says to me—"Shorty, there never was mild, mellow body like Camels." And, as for Dan Boggs—he spills it that Camels are the only cigarette free from any unpleasant cigarette aftertaste or cigarette odor! And, he knows! Frank Frazer will tell you it's Camels wonderful Turkish and Domestic blend! And all of them are right!

And, Pete, old proof-of-the-pudding—you tell 'em that Missouri hasn't anything on little old New York when it comes to that "show me" stuff, on cigarettes or anything g else!

Money can't buy a greater luxury or surer way to beauty

The easy way to beauty

in a simple cake of soap

HOW do you keep your face clean? Do you give it a hasty daily washing with any old soap? Or do you perhaps depend on cold cream to remove dirt and dust? Either method is dangerous and invites bad results. Careless washing makes the skin rough and coarse. Yet complexions get soft and flabby without the tonic of water. The secret is—make washing your face a real beauty treatment. How—by using Palmolive Soap, the beautifying cleanser. The Palmolive lather is so mild that it cleanses without irritation, no matter how sensitive is your skin. Profuse and creamy, it penetrates every tiny pore, removing the dirt, dust and oil secretions, which, when neglected, clog and irritate. Apply Palmolive Cold Cream and apply it liberally. If your skin is dry, use it both before and after washing. Palmolive is the scientific modern combination of the Palm and Olive oils Cleopatra used. It is the favorite facial soap of millions who have learned that while you pay more you can't buy better.

THE PALMOLIVE COMPANY, MILWAUKEE, U. S. A.

PALMOLIVE

Why doesn't it cost more?

Because the Palmolive factories work day and night to supply the demand. Because the rare Palmolive ingredients are bought in enormous quantities. Thus the price of Palmolive is kept moderate—no more than for ordinary soap. It can be enjoyed by every woman and procured everywhere.

Is Every Little Task a Burden?

To the woman worn out with work, kidney, housework is a heavy burden. Backache, sick headaches, "blues," nervousness, dizziness, and a weak, tired condition, make the simplest tasks difficult and the daily duties give the weakened kidneys no time to recover. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have brought relief and comfort to thousands of weak, suffering women. Ask your neighbor!

How a Lima

Woman Was Freed

Mrs. Wm. Wyatt, 232 W. Vine St., says: "I was taken with lumbago and had to go to bed for a couple of days. There was too much uric acid in my system. My kidneys didn't act right and caused me a lot of annoyance. I suffered with rheumatic pains all through my body, too. Doan's Kidney Pills helped me wonderfully."

Nearly three years later, Mrs. Wyatt said: "Since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me sometime ago, I haven't needed a kidney remedy and have felt fine."—Adv.
